

Fenside Woods

Fenside Woods offers peaceful woodland walks alongside the river Witham with flat all-weather paths, perfect for family strolls and accessible visits. This woodland incorporates Beech Wood, Pioneer Wood and the Green Burial Site.

Peaceful open spaces

Dotted with picnic benches and scenic walkways, Fenside Woods is the ideal spot for an afternoon picnic or evening stroll. A trail of paths leads you to a scenic pond and small amphitheatre, dotted within the wildflower meadow.

A natural space for all

These peaceful green spaces can be enjoyed by car or by taking a short scenic walk along the west side of the river Witham from the Grand Sluice. Beech Wood features a stunning selection of trees, turning from glorious green in the summer to a picturesque golden into the autumn months, making this a wonderful spot to enjoy, no matter what the time of year.

Wooden Wildlife

Look out for a trail of wood carvings dotted along the woodland paths featuring a variety of animals and local wildlife.

Grange Wood

Along Fenside Road, you will first reach Grange Wood, a well-established area of greenery planted in 2002, with a range of native deciduous trees and all-weather paths to enjoy. Travelling a little further along Fenside Road brings you to a 23-acre area of woodland to the northwest of Boston, incorporating Beech Wood, Pioneer Wood, and Beech Wood Green Burial.

Grab a bite to eat

Boston Lock Café is a short 10-minute walk from Fenside Woods, heading south along the river Witham, crossing at The Grand Sluice.

Where to park

If you're visiting by car, there are two dedicated car parks at Beech Wood and the Green Burial Site, which can be easily accessed on Fenside Road along the west side of the river Witham, a short mile north of Boston's town centre (PE21 8LA)
